

Peter DUNN 鄧小宇 (b. 1951.10.31)

Actor

A native of Guizhou, Dunn was born in Hong Kong and fell in love with acting at a young age. His father, Larry Dunn, sent him to an audition organised by Motion Picture and General Investment Co Ltd (MP & GI) when he was seven. His talent impressed director Griffin Yue Feng who cast him in Our Beloved Son (1959). He then acted in a series of MP & GI films, including For Better, For Worse (1959), Education of Love (1961), Father and Son (1963) and Father Takes a Bride (1963). Dunn's acting career ended when he entered secondary school. His younger brother, Paul Dunn, was also a child actor.

Dunn later studied media studies at University of Georgia and Temple University. He founded City Magazine with Henry Wu, Joseph Yau and John Chan in 1976. He left City Magazine in 1983 and has since been helping his father to manage the family business.
